

Classical Swine Fever (CSF)

Two new outbreaks of the disease in North-Rhine Westphalia in Germany were reported on 1 April 2006, one of which occurred outside an earlier established surveillance zone. Since the first outbreaks in early March, over 24,000 pigs on 64 farms have been culled. The European Union announced strict transport restrictions for pigs for the whole of Germany on Tuesday 4 April.
